OFFICE, 25 & 27 Fourteenth TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1874.

THE new law for compulsory vaccina tion, submitted to the German Imperial Diet, now in session, prescribes that every child shall be vaccinated within one calendar year after its birth, unless it has had the small-pox before; and that every child attending school shall be vaccinated during its twelfth year, unless it can be shown that the child has had the smallpox within the last two years, or has been vaccinated within the last five years.

ashamed of his reputed organ at Charleston, for it is edited with both ability and mistake of placing the partisan before the statesman. It is true that certain party principles are essential to the success of a party. But the editor who is forever reiding candidates for office because commending candidates for office because they have always been true to the party betrays the unlaithful citizen and is the pest of parties. No useful statesman was always faithful to party; parties become corrupt, and should not be always sustained. No great patriot in this country was ever faithful to party.

This is a because a decirate to a recommend.

none the less so because it appears in a Democratic paper. It may be called the new gospel in politics; a gospel that is preached at this time by a larger number of newspapers throughout the United States to a larger number of readers than at any former period in the history of the

A Provincial Council of the Catholic

Arch Bishop Bayley will convene the 11th Provincial Council of Baltimore on the first Sunday of May. The Province of Baltimore comprises 12 dioceses and one vicarate, viz: Diocese of Baltimore, the Most Reverend James Roosevelt Bayley, consecrated Archbishop in the Cathedral of Baltimore, Sunday, Oct. 13, 1872, dral of Baltimore, Sunday, Oct. 13, 1872, as the successor of Archbishop Spalding; Philadelphia, the Right Rev. James F. Wood; Wheeling, the Right Rev. Richard V. Whelan; Charleston, the Right Rev. Patrick N. Lynch, Savannah, the Right Rev. William Gross; Pittsburgh, the Right Rev. Michael Domenec; Erie, the Right Rev. Tobias Mullen; Harrisburg, the Right Rev. Jeremiah F. Shanshan; Seranton, the Right Rev. William the Right Rev. Jeremiai F. Shanahan; Seranton, the Right Rev. William O'Hara; Richmond, the Right Rev. James Gibbons (who is also Vicar Apostolic of North Carolina); Wilmington (Del.), the Right Rev. Thos. A. Becker; St. Augus-tine, the Right Rev. Augustin Verot. The Catholic Church in the United States is divided into seven revisiones.

States is divided into seven provinces, each governed by an Archbishop. Baltimore is the oldest American See, having been established by Pope Plus VI, on the 6th of November, 1789. The Right Rev. John Carroll (cousin of Charles Carroll, of Carrollin), west his first America Carte. Carrollton,) was the first American Catho-lic Bishop. Until 1847, Baltimore was the only Archibishopric in the United States, and each council was attended by the entire literarchy of the country. But, to meet the rapid and immense growth of the West, St. Louis was raised to the rank. of a Metropolitan See in the year 1847 by Pope Plus IX. Since then, Cincinnati e Plus IX. Since then, Cincinnati, York, New Orleans, San Francisco. and Oregon City, have been successively made Archbishoprics. There are now seven Archbishops and 53 Bishops in the American Catholic Church.

The See of Baltimore is the Primary See in the United States because it is the collect.

See in the United States because it is the oldest. By a brief of Pope Pius IX, dated July 25, 1853, the prerogative of place was granted forever to the Diocese ot Baltimore. Councils in the Catholic Church are of three kinds, viz. Ecumenical, at which all the Bishops, Archbishops and Cardinals of the world assemble in Rome and nuder the supervision. Rome, and, under the supervision of the Pope, consider and decide questions of universal interest. Such was the cele-prated Vatican Council, which met in the billiy of the Pope. 2. Plenary—at which the hierarchy of a country assemble in a metropolitan Church, under the direction of a Primate or Apostolic Delegate, and canct laws for the guidance of their re-spective dioceses, Of such councils there spective dioceses. Of such councils there have been only two in the United States, viz: The First Plenary Council of Baltimore, in May, 1852, comprising six Archbishops and twenty-six Bishops, presided over by Francis Patrick Kenrick, Archbishop of Baltimore and Apostolic Delegate of Pope Plus IX; and the Second Plenary Council of Baltimore which are gate of Pope Pins IX; and the Second Plenary Council of Baltimore, which assembled in October, 1866, and numbered seven Archbishops, thirty-eight Bishops, three Mitred Abbots, and 120 of the most eminent Catholic clergy. The late Archbishop Spalding presided over this Council. 3 Provincial—at which the Bishops of some particular province participate of some particular province participate and transact business appertaining to that special section. Such will be the Eleventh Provincial Council of Baltimore.

ANTI-DARWINISM.

The Evolution Theory Scouted by Waterhouse Hawkins in His Lec-ture on the Evidence of Design. [From the N. Y. World of Saturday] Mr. B. Waterhouse Hawkins delivered the second of his course of lectures on the unity of plan and evidence of design in the animal frame last evening at the Union League Club Theatr , which was well filed by an appreciative audience.

He said:

In my last recture I proposed to show that a unity of plan exists throughout the animal kingdom from the lowest to the bighest, and that each group exhibits an evidence of design and a fitness for its place in nature that prove conclusively that it was not reached by progressive development. A comparison of the most angient fossilized remains with living unimals shows that this pulity of place. andient (costlized remains with living an-imals shows that this unity of plan has never been interrupted in all the innu-merable medifications of the secondary organs. I now propose to consider the fishes called the lowest class of verte-brates, which present to systematic naturalists more embarrassments than any uralists more embarrassments than any other group, in consequence of their general resemblance to each other; and for a very long time at our British Museum fish were laid saide for anglers to talk wisely about, but certainly not to approach in anything like surangement till by the mighty genine of Cuvier there was an arrangement attempted, which was found fault with by every one who had either seen a fish or caten one for twenty years, but it has been proved that it was solid foundation on which he built, and that is the basis to which all must come at last. In common with all animal nature the fish is produced from an egg. In compensation for the perils to which these eggs at substeted as a mai nature the fish is produced from an egg. In compensation for the 'perils to which these eggs are subjected we find the sumber produced by each individual very great, numbering in the salmon for fintance from 10,000 to 20,000. Notwithstanding this ample provision of nature for the preservation of this valuable fish, we find it had nearly become extinct in British waters owing to the covetous, thort-sighted exercise of man's dominion over them. The salmon is a most knowlog fish, and takes great care of its eggs, covering them over with gravel, the male being provided with a bone like appendage which enables him to do this, for to him the protection of the family is left, the temple offer her beautiful for the family is left, him the protection of the samily is lest, the female, after she has deposited her ova, having nothing more to do with it, but glides down the stream and is many miles away while the father is taking care London apprentices had a clause in their indentures that they should not be obliged to eat salmon more than twice a week board and for the rest of his lecture talked mostly with his fingers, his tongue in explanation hardly keeping pace with them. He draw first a representation of the spawning ground of the salmon, and explained the method by which the male first vitalized the eggs and then covered them with the graval to prefet them. ton, for it is edited with both ability and boldness. Here is a short editorial from its last issue:

Poor politicians are always making the mistake of placing the partisan before the statesman. It is true that certain party lect salmon. There was, therefore, chance for the evolution or develtheory. The eggs were left by the father and mother, and they were sure to grow and sure to grow to be salmon. He then draw on the board the appearance of the egg in its various stages of development from the first appearance of life to the full and perfect fish. He next proceeded to show the different varieties of fish as This is wholesome doctrine to preach to the people generally these days, and added: "I contend that there are no and added: "I contend that there are no extinct animals; on the contrary, everything that has been is still represented. The fitness of each in every particular shows that its creation must have been the work of a divine plan, each being fore-ordained for the position it filled so perfectly and completely."
